

Java Embedded Resource Catalog 2004

Reach 25,000 embedded Java developers & engineers!

Extension Media is pleased to present the Java Embedded Resource Catalog 2004—a print and online buyers' guide designed to help embedded Java developers make important purchasing decisions.

We invite you to participate now at a 30% special early bird discount.

This buyers' guide will help embedded Java developers and engineers make important purchasing decisions all year long—a great opportunity for you to showcase your company, products and services.

Who will use the Java Embedded Resource Catalog?

The print version of the Catalog will be directly distributed to 10,000 embedded java developers and engineers—with an average pass along readership of 2.5 per copy, that's a reach of 25,000!

The Catalog is targeted at decision-makers who will use it when purchasing Java compatible hardware, software, tools and services.

In addition, the Catalog will be available in a convenient, searchable online format, continually updated, and aggressively marketed for 12 months.

Shouldn't your company be included in this influential resource?

You can participate with product data sheets, display ads, and application articles with rates starting at just $595.

Advertising Benefits

- Catalogs are used for one key reason: to make purchasing decisions
- The shelf life of a Catalog lasts 12+ months—more than any other type of publication
- The convenient catalog format—in print (8.375" x 10.875") and online—is the preferred format of developers—a one-stop buying guide
- Data Sheets enable you to communicate detailed information, benefits and specs on your products
